Overall, 66% of CT’s occupied housing stock is comprised of single-family housing, while 33% is multifamily housing (2+ units in structure) and 1% is mobile homes.

In Naugatuck, 64% of occupied homes are single-family, 34% are multifamily (2+ units in structure), and 2% are mobile homes. Renters live in 79% of Naugatuck’s 4,141 multifamily homes, and owners occupy 89% of its 7,702 single-family homes.

Year Built

CT’s housing stock varies in age, with 22% built before 1939, 36% built from 1940 to 1969 and 42% built from 1970 on.

In Naugatuck, 22% of the housing stock was built prior to 1939, 34% was built between 1940 and 1969 and the remaining 44% was built after 1970. Shifting demographics indicate that housing built from 1970 on may not meet the needs of CT’s current and future residents.

Building Permits

Connecticut saw a sharp decline in building permits following the crash of the housing market in the mid-2000s. As the housing market slowly recovers, statewide building permits have increased by small amounts since 2011, with permits for multifamily units at levels not seen for a decade. Building permits issued, however, remain well below the levels seen in the 1980s and 1990s.

Affordable Housing Appeals List

Naugatuck’s Housing Data Profile: The Story Behind the Numbers

Naugatuck, unlike most of Connecticut’s suburbs, has a median household income fairly close to that of Connecticut, modest-to-high housing costs, a better than average supply of units for teachers, nurses, electricians, firefighters and town workers, and a reasonable range of housing choices for Baby Boomers seeking to downsize and Millennials and young families seeking to move to town.

Housing remains expensive in Naugatuck relative to the median household income. Statewide, 50% of renters and 32% of homeowners spend 30% or more of their household incomes on housing. In Naugatuck, where the $58,078 median household income is lower than the statewide median of $70,331, 45% of the town’s renters and 32% of its homeowners spend 30% or more of their income on housing.

Naugatuck is one of the few Connecticut municipalities that could see an increase in school enrollment through 2030 because of unusual anticipated growth in school-age (5-19) population of 5% from 2020 to 2030. At the same time, its population is getting much older, with a projected increase of 17% in the 65+ population from 2020 to 2030, potentially leading to the need for smaller, denser, more affordable homes closer to the town center, services and, if possible, transit connections.

Naugatuck is among the third of Connecticut municipalities where single-family homes do not dominate its housing stock (64%) and there is substantial multifamily housing to offer (42% of the units are 0-2 bedrooms, compared to 42% statewide). Many towns in Connecticut built the bulk of their homes after 1970 to accommodate the needs of new Baby Boomer families then in their 20s. In Naugatuck, 44% of homes were built in 1970 or after.

Now in their 60s, those families are seeking more modest homes. But their attempts to sell are being met by few offers because few young families can afford to move to those towns, flattening median sales prices and stunting the growth of Grand Lists – the towns’ total value of real property – and thus property tax revenues needed to pay for increasingly expensive services. From 2008 through 2016 (latest OPM figures), 150 towns experienced negative growth in real property values, 2 had no growth and 7 had only slight growth of 2 percent or less. The total real property Grand List in Naugatuck declined significantly by 25% from 2008 through 2016.

Across the state, 138 of the 169 municipalities have affordable homes totaling less than 10% of their housing stock. These are the kinds of homes increasingly sought by young professionals, families, town workers, downsizing Baby Boomers and others. In Naugatuck, 8% of the homes are affordable, according to the state’s 2016 Affordable Housing Appeals List.
